SCHOOL REPORT.

With the close of every school year the question, how to improve our facilities for the education of our children, presents itself with ever increasing force. With the progressive spirit of the age keeping pace with the progress made in the arts and sciences, comes the demand for higher education among all classes and both sexes. The boy born and reared on our farms may be destined to sit in our national halls of legislature, or direct the vast enterprises of some colossal business stretching out its busy lines to every part of the world. The girl who now knows no other life than that incident to our quiet town, may in the near future sit in solemn dignity on the Full Bench with the learned Doctor of the Law, or be called to preach the Gospel of Good Tidings in some elegant city church. Men and women with educated brains are in demand as never before in the history of the world, and it becomes us as parents to see to it that our children shall not be handicapped in the race by any deficiency in education which we could have supplied. Thousands of men are today filling positions of the highest character, standing foremost in the affairs of men and of the land, who as boys rode the horses to plough and drove the cows to pasture on our farms. Many women now wives of men famous in all the branches of the world's industries, creditably maintaining their position among the richest and the greatest of the land, as girls attended our country district schools and helped their mothers in the busy round of household duties. No one can tell or even guess, where the lives of the humblest among us are to end. We know these truths have been presented to us all, time and again, but we believe it will do us good to keep them constantly in mind, always remembering that there are no children among us so humble, but that some just as humble have in our day risen to the highest places in our land.

In the public schools of our land are now being developed the traits of character that will make or unmake the men and women who are to take our places in the world. If, in these schools they acquire the habits of punctuality, ready obedience to superiors and positiveness in regard to what they know, and what they don't know, they will have acquired much beside and beyond book knowledge that will be of inestimable value to them in years to come.
